

Al-Alwani
Lectures in Muslim-
Christian Dialogue

WASHINGTON THEOLOGICAL CONSORTIUM
Crossroads of Dialogue, Faith and Learning

February 27, 2014
Thursday
5:30-8:30 p.m.

Dr. Amir Akrami has taught at the Al-Mahdi Institute in England, the Institute for Interreligious Dialogue in Iran, and is currently the visiting Luce scholar, Eastern Mennonite University. He has written on Divine Consultation, Human Nature, Justice, and Scriptural Interpretation in Islam, in dialogue with philosophy and Abrahamic faiths.

Dr. Wilhelmus Valkenberg has taught at the Catholic University of Nijmegen, the Netherlands, Loyola University in Baltimore, and is currently Professor of Religion and Culture at the Catholic University of America. His writings cover Inter-religious Hermeneutics, Muslim-Christian dialogue, and most recently World Religions in Dialogue: A Comparative Theological Approach.

Fifth Annual Al-Alwani Lectures in Muslim-Christian Dialogue

“People of the Book”
Help or Hindrance in Interfaith Dialogue?

Dr. Seyed Amir Akrami, visiting Luce scholar
at the Center for Interfaith Engagement
Eastern Mennonite University

Dr. Wilhelmus Valkenberg, Professor of Religion and Culture at the Catholic University of America

El-Hibri Charitable Foundation
1420 16th Street NW, Washington DC

Full Reception Follows

The Al-Alwani Lectures are in honor of
Dr. Taha Jabir Al-Alwani.

Thanks to the Heritage Trust for supporting this lecture series, and to the El-Hibri Charitable Foundation for hosting us.

Free and Open to Faculty, Students
Friends, and the Public

RSVP wtc@washtheocon.org or (202) 832-2675

