Crossroads of Faith, Learning and Dialogue

Dr. Peter C. Phan
Georgetown University

Peter Phan, a native of Vietnam, emigrated as a refugee to the U.S.A. in 1975. He earned the Doctor of Sacred Theology from the Universitas Pontificia Salesiana, Rome, and the Doctor of Philosophy and the Doctor of Divinity from the University of London. He has taught at the University of Dallas; at the Catholic University of America, at Union Theological Seminary (New York), at Elms College, (Chicopee, MA), at St. Norbert College (De Pere, WI), and at Georgetown University, where he holds the Ignacio Ellacuría Chair of Catholic Social Thought. He has served as President of the Catholic Theological Society of America, and he received the CTSA's John Courtney Murray Award in 2010.

His publications range from the theology of the icon and patristic thought to ecclesiology, mission, and culture. Dr. Phan has addressed issues of ecclesial diversity and immigration in Many Faces, One Church; Cultural Diversity and the American Catholic Experience (Rowman and Littlefield, 2005), Contemporary Issues of Migration and Theology (2013, MacMillan), and Christianities in Migration: The Global Perspective (Springer, 2016). He is general editor of the multi-volume series Theology in Global Perspective (Orbis) and Ethnic American Pastoral Spirituality (Paulist). His work has been published in eleven languages.
